The Sense of Security

Unless he possesses a sense of complete security a man can neither put forth his best efforts nor fulfil his highest destiny in life.

The sense of security is best achieved by placing his own future beyond the risk of misadventure, and by placing those who would suffer by his death beyond the risk of want.

This state of mental independence can be attained in an ideal way by taking out a Policy of Assurance... We can offer you the choice of a range of contracts which cover practically, every circumstance and contingency in life.

DR. J. M. ELDER DIED AFTER A LONG ILLNESS

Popular McGill Professor Succumbed to Illness Last Night.

FUNERAL FRIDAY.

Was Always Actively Connected with Undergraduate Affairs.

The death occurred at half-past seven last night of Dr. J. M. Elder at his residence, 731 Sherbrooke Street West. Dr. Elder, was a graduate of Arts in 1881 and of Medicine 1885, and has been closely connected with McGill ever since that time. As Assistant Professor of Surgery and Clinical Surgery he was identified with the Faculty of Medicine for many years and only resigned in 1920 to take a long deserved rest.

At the opening of the war, Dr. Elder volunteered to go overseas with the McGill hospital in the rank of Colonel and was closely connected with that unit throughout the full period of hostilities. His work was highly praised on several occasions during the war and in 1918 he was honored by the King in being created a Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George. He returned to Canada in January 1919 and resumed his practice until it was curtailed by illness last fall.

Dr. Elder was probably the most familiar figure of any of the professors to the majority of the students about the campus. He had been closely connected with the athletic activities in his own college days and that interest was continued until the time of his death. During his undergraduate days at McGill he was the President of the Rugby Club and was elected Honorary-President of that organization for many years in succession when he was connected with the staff.

There was rarely a trip made by the football team unless the players were accompanied by him and, when illness prevented him from leaving his bed last fall, a message was sent to the players from him before every contest. From his room in the Royal Victoria Hospital he could hear the shouts of the rooters at the football games on the Percival Molson Memorial Stadium and was always anxious to hear the results of the games as soon as the quiet announced that they were concluded.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon next at 2.30 o'clock from his residence to Melville church. Members of the football team in particular, and generally all of the students are asked to be present at the funeral service.

McGILL STUDENT DIES AT HOSPITAL

W. W. Thompson, Victim of Pneumonia.

The Student body of McGill has experienced another loss in the death of Wendell William Thompson, aged 27 who succumbed to pneumonia after a short illness at the Montreal General Hospital, on January 18th, 1922.

Wendell's home was Point La Nim, New Brunswick, and he received his prep. school training at Campbellton High School. The early days of the war found him teaching school in the West and it was not long before he responded to the call, and went overseas where he served on the Western Front with the 4th Canadian Machine Gun Battalion.

Returning to Canada, he entered McGill in 1919 with the class of Medicine '24. "Tommy" was always quiet and unobstrusive but his ready wit and steady personality made him a general favourite with his fellow students. His passing leaves a gap which is felt most keenly.

STATISTICS.

1. The amount of gum consumed in the United States is enough to apply a coating of stucco to the walls of Jerusalem, including the gates.

2. The wood in the Arts building is sufficient to make 25,000 nutmegs and have enough left over to make a picket fence around Gull Pond, Labrador.

3. Arts students have lately got into enough hot water to supply steam for the entire Swiss Navy.

4. The overshoes worn in North America if buckled to each other would form a Daisy chain long enough to encircle Mt. Popocatapett three and one half times, and two over.

5. The energy wasted in finding things about the lecture rooms if utilized would make enough electricity to light the town of Cap Hill, Ontario.

DARING DEED CAUSES LOSS OF LIQUOR

Mysterious Stranger Vanishes With Potent Fluid.

VICTIM WEAKENS.

Stupendous Crime May Be Listed as Unsolved.

Hard times due to unemployment have been responsible for many crimes of a more or less serious nature. Saturday morning an attempt was made to rob one of the staff of Strathcona Hall.

Early Saturday morning Mr. Alfred Kilmer whose duty it is to look after the rooms on the third floor was engaged in dusting the office when a large man of rough appearance entered and demanded money. Mr. Kilmer had quite a sum of money, with which to pay for the week's supply of milk. The residents of the Hall consume vast quantities of this mild liquid so the sum involved ran up into two figures. He beat a hasty retreat through the telephone booth which is situated at the rear of the office ran down the basement stairs where he called to John Martin another floorman, who was busy in the basement. The two men ran up the stairs but the burly invader had disappeared bearing with him some one's breakfast in the shape of a bottle of milk. Nothing else was missing.

The Hall has been greatly patronized by the ancient order of dead beats during the present Winter. Despite the fact that the favorite beverage of the Hall's inmates is milk it is often necessary to leave the door unlocked all night. Perhaps they are left open by those thirsty individuals who can no longer wait for the milkman but must needs go out to meet him. Whatever the reason may be the doors are left open and on several occasions disreputable looking characters have been found loafing in the corridors.

DR. MALCOLM TO READ A PAPER

Meeting of Physiological Society Tuesday.

The first regular meeting of the Physiological Society for this term will be held in the Old Medical Building Tuesday, February 7, at 8.15.

Dr. Malcolm will read a paper on "Historical and Modern Researches Pertaining to the Sympathetic Nervous System," and those who attend are assured of an entertaining and instructive address on this interesting subject.

Members are requested to remember that books loaned at previous meetings are due on Tuesday evening. Owing to lack of room the library of the society is laboring under a disadvantage this year, and it is only by the co-operation of all in the prompt return of books that the library can be of real service to all the members.

After the meeting on Tuesday evening an opportunity will be given to borrow further from the library.

All Medical students or others are cordially invited to come and hear Dr. Malcolm.

GOOD FINISH IN SKI RACE ON SATURDAY

Fourteen Entries in Cross-Country Run.

ELLIOT WON.

Team Chosen for Dartmouth Carnival — Entries Wired.

After a gruelling seven-mile run with with thirteen competitors following hard after him, Howard Elliot, Arts '22, skied down McTavish Street to the ski-run finish outside the Library, the winner by two minutes. The official time for Elliot's run was 37 min. 30 seconds. The second place honours go to Wade, whose time was 39 min, 30 sec. Hill ran third and Desbarats fourth.

Saturday's cross-country event was probably the fastest and most-exhausting race ever run here. The committee in charge made a change at the last moment and instead of following the local custom of starting the runners off at half-minute intervals, they instituted the American system of starting all the men off at once. The change was thought advisable as the race was essentially an elimination for the Dartmouth Carnival, and as such should be run off consistent with the Dartmouth system. In consequence, all the runners were hard-pressed and this meant faster running and better time all around. The icy condition of the mountain necessitated another departure from the accustomed routine: the course was shifted from the usual one and was run almost entirely on the roads of the mountain. This was advisable under the circumstances, but took away somewhat from the "cross-country" aspect, as there was no wooded country and few hills of any length.

Fourteen competitors started from the Club Housse on the old Park Slide Hill. By the time Shakespeare Lane was reached, the runners were well lined-out, though sticking hard to each other. Down Cote des Neiges to the R. C. Cemetery, through the Cemetery to Calvary, down the north serpentine to eventually Mount Royal Avenue, thence following the Mt. Royal serpentine along under the old elevator-shaft, past the Ross Memorial, down to Peel and Pine, and finally down McTavish to the Redpath Library. All fourteen competitors finished, with no conspicuous lagging in the ranks anywhere.

Great credit must be given to Desbarats, although the official report ranks him fourth. At the corner of Pine and McTavish, he was right at Elliot's heels, but unlike Elliot, Desbarats carried on down to University St., instead of slid-

MACDONALD STAFF WON BASKETBALL

Score 20—17 in Game with Intermediate "B."

The Macdonald Staff basketball team defeated the Intermediates "B" at St. Anne's on Saturday, in a game which was very close all the way through, as neither team was more than three points ahead at any stage, the final score being 20 to 17. At half time the score stood 8 to 8. In the second period Macdonald pulled ahead, scoring twelve more points to McGill's nine.

Conklin, a former Cornell man, was the outstanding Macdonald player, while Boyd starred for McGill.

After eighteen minutes of play in the first period it was discovered that a wire, which had held up part of the previous evening's dance decorations, was stretched across the basket at which the Intermediates were shooting. During this time the McGill team had nine free shots.

The line-up was as follows:

Intermediates "B."	Macdonald.
James	McQuat
Tinkers	Conklin
Boyd	Ameron
Rorke	Major
Rafolovicth	Hatch

UNION SMOKERS.

It is only a few years since the Union smokers, held almost every month for all of the students in the University, were the most popular events on the calendar of the students' activities. This year there has not been a single similar occasion, although the House Committee did stage some boxing and wrestling bouts for the benefit of the undergraduates early in the session.

A gathering for the whole body of undergraduates similar to those held by the sectional clubs, is what is needed from time to time. Perhaps it is the growth of the sectional club movement that has caused the large smokers to be eliminated, but, if so, it is high time that the movement should start in the other direction. If anything, there is a little too much sectionalism in the club movement at the present time, and every additional club tends to take away from the spirit that binds all of the University men together.

The sectional clubs in themselves are perfectly all right, but they must be subordinated to the larger movements in which all of the students are interested. The Union is, perhaps, one of the most important factors in the University in bringing the students of the various faculties together, and it would be a mistake to allow the minor clubs to assume the part in the college activities that should be played by the larger organization.

There has never been any doubt about the popularity of the Union smokers, and we feel that, if one was announced to be similar to those which were so enjoyable a few years ago, its popularity would be assured.

HARD EARNNED VICTORIES.

The victories for the basketball and hockey teams on Saturday were well earned. Neither of the contests were easily won, and the McGill teams have come through their strenuous games with increased respect for the representatives of Queen's University.

The feature of the week-end programme of sport was, of course, the hockey game on Saturday night. The spirit of the players on both teams in fighting gamely through three periods of over-time play was characteristic of intercollegiate sport in general, and is one of the reasons why the spectators always come in large numbers to watch the contests.

As usual, the games had a certain element of luck in them, but it can scarcely be said that it favoured either one particularly. The losers have gone back to Kingston secure in the feeling that they were only defeated after having played their hardest, while McGill can feel proud of their victories over such worthy opponents.

THE LATE DR. J. M. ELDER.

The news of the death of Dr. Elder will be a source of regret to everyone connected with the University. As a student and member of the staff, he always showed a keen interest in student activities, and made a large number of close frriends among the undergraduates. He was still actively interested in student affairs up to the time of his death.

The memory of Dr. Elder and the spirit he exhibited in promoting clean sportsmanship in intercollegiate athletics will be remembered long after the present students have graduated and new generations are occupying the lecture halls.

TOWNSHIPS CLUB MAKE MERRY TODAY

Skating Party to Take Place This Evening.

All those who were at last year's skating parties will remember "Tony" and his enchanting "music box." Tonight he will wind off, in a most artistic manner, all the up-to-date music from Grand Opera to Rag-time. The party will afterwards proceed to the Y. T. P. Inn and there dance to the "enchanting music" of Jack Woodmans' famous orchestra.

As mentioned before, weather conditions will not hinder the party from being a success. Meet at the "Hall" at 7.45 p.m. and you will be rewarded with a "jolly good time." The club is looking forward to a large turn-out of the R. V. C. co-eds, and are very confident of not being disapppointed in this respect.

WIRELESS AT OREGON UNIV.

The Oregon Daily Emerald will soon get some of its news by wireless. A receiving room has been arranged at the editorial office and the instruments are already set up. The operators will take a one-night shift each week. The professors of the Department of Physics is lending the sending set and two students of the University are contributing the receiving set and installing both sets. Communication will be made with all the colleges on the Pacific Coast using the Intercollegiate News Service.

Editor of McGill Daily,
Dear Sir:—

With the beginning of the new half-term, our lecturers have been reminding us of the amount of time which they expect us to devote to our courses of study apart from the lecture periods. Three of the professors, whose classes I have the privilege of attending, have pronounced the required amount of time as two hours, an hour and a half and one hour respectively. Since then I have been interested in making up an estimate of the time, which if I follow this schedule, I shall have left free for my own idle pleasures.

I take what is known as an "easy" course in Second Year. I have no lectures on Saturday and no Lab. periods, and I take only the minimum number of courses required by the curriculum. Surely I must have a great deal of leisure time. Let us see. Here is the schedule which I have made out for the six working-days of the week.

Sleep:- eight and a half hours per day, make fifty-one hours per week. Meals:- three hours per day or eighteen hours per week. Presumably my meals are simple and served one time. Dressing etc:- An hour and a half a day or nine hours per week. I dress in the morning and undress at night, never changing my clothes or doing my hair during the daytime ,apparently. For coming to College and getting home again I count one hour per day or six hours per week. Carfare is cheap and by taking the car I save time, as the Montreal car service is so swift and reliable. I count six days for this item as I must come to the Redpath on Saturday to spend the full quota of time on my "readings." Lectures and gym, periods take up eighteen hours a week. Time lost in going to the Library and looking for books which fellow-students have crabbed before me may be estimated at half an hour a day or three hours a week. Following the instructions of three professors as to the time to be spent on their subjects, and giving the minimum amount of one hour per lecture to the other short-sighted professors who have neglected to supply their estimate, I must spend twenty hours a week on this study. The total is one hundred and twenty-five hours per week. Subtract this from the total number, (one hundred and forty-four,) of hours in the six days, and divide the remainder, nineteen hours, by six. We have the average of three and one sixth hours of leisure per day.

This enormous amount of leisure time may be squandered on home duties, college activities, social activities, outside studies, such as Music, reading for pleasure, outdoor exercise for health, exercise for health, extra baths and dressing-periods, care of one's clothes, intensive work on any one course in case of special interest in or inaptitude for that course, or loss of time through illness, social-service work, etc., etc.

Should this epistle meet the eye of those professors who have not as yet, announced their desire in the matter of study periods: I beg of them to be merciful and not upset my schedule by increasing the time from one hour's study for each lecture.

Yours truly,
A Care-free Sophette.

Dear Mr. Editor:

Having enjoyed the series of talks given in the past by prominent speakers under the auspices of the McGill Canadian Club, many have awaited this year in vain for some similar signs of activity by the executive of this important college club.

Last year the university turned out in force to hear the interesting speech given by the late explorer, Sir Ernest Shackleton, and those of other noted men.

The season is quickly passing, but it is not too late for McGill students to hear a few outstanding citizens by means of this organization.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for this privilege,

NORMAN EGERTON.

The Editor,
McGill Daily.
Dear Sir,

I read with interest the letter of Free Thinker which appeared in Saturday's issue. I am glad that I am not alone in my appeal for the formation of a club whose aims are more than local.

In reply to Free Thinker's question regarding the Cosmopolitan Club I might say that this club, although doing a good work and certainly having its place in University life, is far from being an international one. "Cosmopolitan" was the new name adopted in 1920 by the Foreign Students' Club. Its aims, as set forth in the Strathcona Hall handbook are as follows:

"Organized for the purpose of promoting fellewship among students from other countries and acquainting them with Canadian life and ideals. It is also the purpose of the members to communicate with students in their own countries and assist any who may come to McGill." Now this is a high ideal, and I trust we would have the hearty support of these men. But you can see that their range of activity is greatly limited. I don't believe that membership in this club is open to Canadians, Americans or Old Countrymen. If I have been misinformed in anyway, I trust one of their members will correct me.

An international club must make its membership open to all who desire such. Its aims will be to create a fellowship among Canadians and their foreign brothers, and for each nationality to obtain an intelligent conception of the other's national life and ideals.

Internationalist.

DEAN LAING WILL SPEAK AT THE UNION

To-night at Open Meeting of Philosophical Society.

EVERYBODY WELCOME.

All Arts Men Should Turn Out —Special Invitation to R. V. C.

At last the day is here for the much talked-of and advertised open meeting of the Philosophical Society. All the plans have been made, and it is sincerely hoped that a capacity crowd will be on hand at the Union at 8.15, when the meeting is scheduled to start. Most of the arrangements have already been fully explained in these columns during the past week, but a brief resume will now be given merely as a reminder.

The speaker is to be Dean Gordon J. Laing, of the Arts Faculty, and he will be introduced to the gathering by Sir Arthur Currie. The Dean will speak on the subject of "What Philosophy and the Other Arts Courses can do for You." He is a most interesting speaker, as anyone who has met him or heard him speak will know.

The executive of the Philosophical Society feel that they have been signally honoured in that theirs is the first Arts Society to be addressed by the new Dean. At the last meeting of the society in the fall, when Mr. Klineberg spoke on "Definiation of Klineberg spoke on "Definition of ent.

As this is to be an open meeting it is hoped that an even much larger number will be there. Everyone is assured of an excellent address, and a very interesting evening.

TIMES CRITICISES MISS LOHR'S PLAY

New York Opening of "Voice from the Minaret."

The following critical account of the Voice from the Minaret appeared recently in the New York Times from the pen of Alexander Woolcott. Miss Marie Lohr was the guest of the Players' Club during her recent theatrical visit to the city.

"As a supplement to her Canadian tour, Marie Lohr, a London favorite of long standing, ventured tentatively into New York on Monday last and elected, for reasons not yet clear, to make her American debut in a shoddy and rhetorical piece called "The Voice From the Minaret." First-nighters in numbers that did not precisely jam the Hudson beat their palms together amiably enough at the end of each act by way of expressing cordiality toward the newcomer, but did not carry their courtesy to the extreme extent of keeping decently quiet during the performance itself. All through the solemn subterfuges of Mr. Hichens's drama they sat idly strumming their catarrhs.

"The Voice From the Minaret" is curiously stale. It is written in an idiom which the latter-day English playwrights have been painfully unlearning these many years. Its characters speak and behave less like human beings than like the puppets in a third-rate novel of the nineties. Their seeming to spend their days on stilts may gather a little reinforcement from the fact that Miss Lohr herself, with her scrupulous elegance of diction, has inherited a little something of the grand manner of the palmy days. But it would be monstrous to estimate her quality and her adaptability when it must be seen under such fearful disadvantages.

"No one has said when "The Voice From the Minaret" was written. The fact that, in its sedate wey, it makes a roguish topical allusion to Mrs. Glyn's "Three Weeks," suggests that after all Mr. Hichens may have tossed it off as recently as fifteen years ago. One is inclined to suspect it of having lain disprized in his desk at least that long when the belated but extremely financial success of his "Garden of Allah" at Drury Lane in 1920 led to its being dusted off and reinspected with a new awe. Here they may have thought, is a piece made from much the same premises. Go to, the public shall be deprived of it no longer. As a matter of fact, "The Garden of Allah" was carried to popularity on the wave of interest caused by its sandstorm, which so showered the stalls with powdered oatmeal (or some such sly substitute) that people in railway carriages, pubs and omnibuses talked of little else for weeks and weeks.

PEPYS AT McGILL

Sunday, Feb. 5th. (Lord's Day.) Now is my hart very full of great joy, in that I am once again to be accounted as a student of these colleges, and it coming to pass in this wise. On Saturday about noon as I sat utterly disconsolate in my chamber I heard a harsh whistling sound as of some sort of sireen, and thinking it to be a vessell in the harbour about to set sail, I did seize upon my portmanteaux with the utmost speede and made off to the lower towne, but arrived thither I saw no sail of any kind, but only a great deal of flat ice and certain distraught looking clerics, who did hail me and demanded of me whether or not I were Sir Samual Pepys. On my assent to this they embraced me very fondly much to my confusion, and told me that the joynt colleges of Theology had made intercession on my behalf at the care of the Lord Principall in consideration of the zeal I have always shewn in my attendance at church. So a mandate went forth that my geometrick results be revised, which thing was done, and I may once again joyn the company of my fellowes with the sole condition that I study a supplemental, which pothers me not at all so long as it be not geometry. Up betimes this morning that I might most fittingly shew my indebtitude to the Theologickalls, which I did my donning my best cloathes and betaking myself to the Union for the service, and after a long time, no-one coming, I got up and away very wrothy that I had been deceived. A little fearful in that I feel that the occasion of my return must needs be the occasion of much jollity and feasting, which procedure though it be in every way fitting and seemly has often occasioned certain distasteful qualms in my stummick, the more so when the divers kinds of liquors be mingled injudiciously.

ANTE ANALYT

Full many a time I've read and heard
Of ghoulish ghosts of yore,
Made up of loathsome bones enterred
Beneath some hidden floor.

Whose eyeless sockets pierced the gloom,
And sought folks while in bed,
As silent through the darksome room
The spectre moved, 'tis said.

Perhaps you think these days are past,
Mark me! such things live still;
For I myself encountered one,
Right here at old McGill.

It happened just the other night,
'Bout midnight by the clock,
As comfy in my bed I lay,
I heard a mystic knock.

An icy tremour froze my blood,
I quivered like a leaf;
'Twas not the kind of fear a dude
Would have of thug, or thief.

I sensed a fearsome presence that,
Had seized me in its thrall,
Mechanically I crossed the mat,
Stood at its beck and call.

Then right before me there appeared
A gruesome figure tall,
Made up of Mathematics taught
Within the Science wall.

His eyes were made of delta ys,
That changed from X to Os;
He had a theta for disguise,
Rebatted on his nose.

His face was tan to minus one,
And radian was his smile;
He seemed to take my fright as fun,
I was petrified the while.

His chin was a parabola,
With focus where he chose;
His brains were at infinity,
Increments his toes.

The mouth was quite elliptical,
Whose latus rectum was,
Exactly the reciprocal,
Of that of Santa Claus.

His body took the form of curves,
Alike in this respect,
They crossed the X, Y, where the nerves
Were zero, I expect.

The cosine of the angle of
The beard upon his chin,
Most eagerly I tried to prove
Was too acute for him.

His arms, first at a maximum
To a minimum declined,
I tried by use of omega
The derivative to find.

I'm sure his mind was half inclined
To H.P. and X.Y.,
His plan I could not even find,
Useless for me to try.

I think four feet per sec. he stood,
His velocity was nil,
Accelerated was my blood,
After my sudden chill.

Right there with more than one unknown,
I solved my sudden plight,
The monster gave a hollow groan,
And fled into the night.

A sickening thump and I awoke,
Full length upon the floor,
Gee whiz! a nightmare is no joke,
I'll not say how I swore.

A word to you, my worthy friends,
And classmates of McGill,
Crammed Mathematics always tend
To undermine the will.

Absorb them slowly, thus prevent,
This spectre from your door,
That causes troubled student sleep,
Like ghosts in days of yore.

McGILL WINS SENSATIONAL OVERTIME GAME VS. QUEENS

Not Until 11.40 Were Tired Players Able to Drop their Sticks — Queens Put up Good Defence — Anderson and Flanagan Star.

In the most sensational batle witnessed in intercollegiate circles since the memorable McGill—Varsity contest at Toronto in 1920, the McGill hockey team triumphed over the Queen's sextette at the Mount Royal Arena on Saturday night after thirty minutes of extra time, by the score of 4—3.

Old-time followers of the sport who witnessed the struggle declared it the most thrilling encounter staged on local ice in a good many years. On three occasions during the game the score was tied and at no time was the margin between the two teams greater than a single goal. At the end of the third period the teams stood at two all, and after a ten minute period of play at a terrific pace neither team had tallied. The second extra period supplied a number of thrills. McGerrigle had incurred the only penalty on the McGill side, and it looked far from encouraging for the home team, playing one man short, with Queen's staging a promising rally.

Matty Dineen sent the rooters into an uproar when he jumped into the scoring column on a beautiful shot that hit the corner of the net and was too speedy for McNeill to handle. But the tri-color six came back strong and a minute later again drew up alongside the Red and White, when Gibson pushed a loose puck into the McGill net. The Mcgill forwards lost several golden opportunties of taking the lead during the remainder of this session, overanxiety, coupled with the continual presence of the jinx accounting for their inability to find the visitors' nets.

Comparative scores in the intercollegitae series should not discourage the followers of the Red and White, for the team that fell a victim to 'Varsity's 12—6 onslaught two weeks ago, was not the same as that which faced McGill on Saturday. The Kingston coach had been concentrating on the intermediate team in an effort to win the O.H.A. championship, and had kept Campbell and "Red" McKelvey, the mainstays of the Presbyterian team, out of the game with 'Varsity. The six which took the ice against the local institution was one of the strongest that ever represented Queens in the intercollegiate league. Their defence was almost impregnable, and it is tolerably certain that had these men been performing against the Toronto team, the Blue and White would not have been able to amass a total of 12 goals.

It was a hard earned victory for the McGill six, and was certainly well deserved. The men displayed the determination which has been the outstanding characteristic of their play throughout the season, whether in victory or defeat, and never for a minute showed signs of wanting to give up. To play 90 minutes at the clip which was set on Saturday night without slowing up, speaks very highly of the grit possessed by the players.

Although the home team was unable to keep the lead on a great length of time, and the Queens six kept holding on tightly, McGill clearly had the better of the play, and were it not for the consistently brilliant performance of McNeill in goal, the Red and White would have run up a comfortable lead before the end of 60 minutes of play.

The McGill wings showed up well. "Boo" Anderson gave the finest exhibition of all round hockey of his career, and was easily the star of the game. Never before has the sturdy centre displayed the speed with which he performed on Saturday. He was by far the fastest man on the ice, and his stickhandling was faultless. Time after time "Boo" would start from behind his own goal and with great bursts of speed skate right through the entire Queen's team. For 85 minutes "Boo" played without a moment's rest and it was after about five minutes' of play in the third extra period that Shag drew him out for one minute. "Boo" was given a great ovation by the spectators as he skated to the bench.

Matty Dineen, on left wing, gave a great account of himself. He was always down the ice with Anderson, and his checking was very effective. His goal, which placed McGill in the lead in the second extra period, was a beautiful piece of work. Receiving a pass from Anderson, he cleverly fooled the defence, and drawing up to the Queen's goal, sent one into the net which was impossible for McNeill to handle. Flanagan's shouler continued to give hm a great deal of trouble, and as a result he slowed up to a marked degree. Flin missed a number of passes from his team-mates when to receive them meant sure goals. He did not appear to be the same man who displayed such a sensational brand of hockey in Toronto last week. His inability to use the right arm having placed a great handicap upon the McGll athlete.

The defence, Dempsey and McGerrigle, once again acquitted themselves in great fashion. These youngsters played with all the coolness and firmness of tried veterans. They saved Stenson a good deal of work by their close checking. Dempsey, in particular, gained the favor of the stands by his hard work. Jack was in on every play, and his body checking was the best seen here for a long time. He rarely missed his man, and many times succeeded in taking the puck away from the opponent wings when the latter threatened the McGill goal. Captain Walter Stenson played his usual consistent game and made a number of brilliant saves. The three goals that he did allow were impossible shots, the Queen's team earning all of them.

For Queens, Campbell, Nelson and McKelvey bore the brunt of the attack. Nelson, the tri-color centre, did some clever stickhandling, while his eye for the net was eagle-like, the diminutive puck chaser scoring two of his team's goals. Campbell was the fastest man for the visitors, and threatened the McGill goal a number of times. "Red" McKelvey, of football fame, performed well for Queens, doing some very good checking. Smith and Ratchford took care of the defence, and succeeded in keeping the McGill wings out during the greater part of the game. But the visitors have McNeill to thank for the close game which they succeeded in giving the Red and White. This youngster gave one of the finest exhibitions of goal tending that has been seen in intercollegiate competition for a long time.

Although the contest was spirited throughout, the play was very clean, and few penalties were handed out. An excellent spirit of sportsmanship prevailed, and the McGill players agreed that the vsitors were as fine a lot of men as they have ever opposed. A detailed account of the play follows:

First Period.

Anderson took the puck from the face-off, but shot too high. Boo's skates seemed a magnet for the rubber during the firrst minute of play, and Referee Riley Hern got winded blowing the whistle each time the McGill centre skated the puck. Campbell and Nelson combined on a pretty rush down the ice, but McGerrigle intercepted the pass and skated down to take a shot at the Queen's goal, but McNeill saved. The play was very fast, but very little in the way of team work was being shown at this time. McGill was having much the better of the play. It was six minutes before Stenson was called upon to make his first stop. Boo was showing great bursts of speed, and was giving McNeill a great deal of work. Dempsey did a juggling stunt to free his stick when Nelson checked him closely and skated down in time to break up a Queen's play. Nelson then secured the puck in a mix-up outside defence, and got one into the McGill goal for the opening counter of the game. Queen's, 1; McGill, 0. This put more fight into the Red and White skaters, and play became very speedy. Matty Dineen went down the ice, and when he was skated behind the net passed out to Anderson, who poked it in for the tying count. McGill, 1; Queens, 1. Ratchford gave the McGill rooters a scare on his lone rush, but Stenson turned his shot away. Dineen then did a Babe Ruth by sending the puck sailing high over the screen behind the Queen's goal, and into the stands. Dineen and Anderson went down a number of times, and kept McNeill on the alert. Anderson broke up a likely looking three-man rush and stick-handled his way through the entire Queen's team; it looked like a sure goal as he approached the net, but Boo barely missed the corner. After Dempsey and Dineen had tried the Queen's goaler, Flanagan finally went through for the goal which put McGill in the lead. McGill, 2; Queen's, 1. The match then took on the appearance of a football game as a number of players sprawled on the ice in front of the visitors' goal, and what resembled a line of scrimmage was formed just as the gong sounded. The McGill team had the advantage in this period, but their shooting was not very good, and McNeill was playing an excellent game.

McGill, 2; Queen's, 1.

Second Period.

Anderson again opened fire, but could not beat McNeill. Dineen and Boo then engineered a pretty two-man rush, and Anderson's shot appeared to hit the net, and bounce quickly out. Most of the spectators were satisfied that it was a goal, but it was ruled that the disc had hit the pole and bounced back. Campbell made a pretty save when Anderson skated around the defence. The affair now began to resemble a baseball game as a number of players performed some Ty Cobb slides along the ice. Dempsey added to the impression by making a pretty one-handed catch of Campbell's liner, after the fashion of a shortstop. Dempsey checked McKelvey on a threatening rush. Lynch then went on for Flin, and combined with McGerrigle and Anderson on a pretty three-man rush, but Boo's shot was stopped. The same trio tried again, but McNeill was equal to the occasion. The McGill team work was excellent at this point. Flin returned and missed a great chance to score by failing to pass to Boo. Nelson then secured the puck, and shooting from left wing, brought the score to a tie again. McGill, 2; Queen's, 2.

Dempsey and McGerrigle broke up jseveral dangerous rushes. Queen's was using a three-man combination, and threatened. Boo broke up a pretty rush as the period ended. McGill, 2; Queen's, 2.

Third Period.

Flin missed what appeared to be a sure goal on a pass from McGerrigle, and then lost a pretty pass from Anderson. Flanagan and "Red" McKelvey then amused the stands by a wrestling match for the possession of the puck. It looked dangerous when Stenson almost missed the puck in an attempt to clear it from in front of the McGill goal, as Campbell skated in, but Walter got it in time. Flin went down, but failed to pass to Dineen, who was uncovered. Flanagan then tried McNeill, and Boo almost secured the rebound, but the goaler beat him to it. Both teams, in their over-anxiety, began to lack teamwork. McGill had several opportunities of scoring, but the jinx seemed ever at hand. Stenson slid out and made a great save when Campbell fooled the defence. Anderson on this play dove headlong on the ice in an effort to great save when Campbell fooled the ed after a pretty rush. Boo also missed after a beautiful excursion down the ice just as the gong sounded. McGill, 2; Queen's, 2.

First Extra Period.

The players were trying long shots in an attempt to break the tie. McKelvey made a nice save when Boo skated down. Flanagan got the rebound on McGerrigle's shot, but met with hard luck on his shot. Anderson then showed the greatest burst of speed in the game, when he went down and passed to Flanagan, but the play was broken up. Dineen missed the goal by inches, after a pass from Anderson. The McGill rooters went wild as Flanagan, Anderson and Dineen engineered the prettiest rush of the evening, but Dineen overskated.

Second Extra Period.

Shortly after the opening of the period Dineen took a pass from Anderson and broke the tie with a speedy shot that cut the corner of the net. McGill, 3; Queen's, 2. McGill was playing one man short on this play, McGerrigle having been sent to the bench for two minutes. Queens rallied, and Gibson picked up a loose puck and again tied the score. The period ended with a scramble in front of the Queen's goal, after Boo had gone through on the prettiest bit of stick-handling of the game. McGill, 3; Queen's, 3.

Third Extra Period.

Matty saved when Nelson broke through. McGerrigle made a sensational save in a scrimmage before the McGill goal. Matty then went down and passed to Boo, who drew McNeill out and scored the winning goal. Anderson then went off for his first rest after 85 minutes of play, and was given a great ovation. Queen's again rallied, but Stenson held them off. Boo returned and with Dineen kept McNeill busy till the gong. McGll, 4; Queen's, 3.

McGILL WINS BASKETBALL FROM QUEENS

Manson Gives Remarkable Performance in Fast Game.

SCORE 31—24.

Game is Won by Fast Passing and Team Work.

On Saturday afternoon the McGill basketball team defeated Queens by the score of 31 to 24. The clever teamwork of the entire McGill team was undoubtedly the cause of the victory as they scored eight baskets against two of the Kingston team. Time after time the forward line swept down the floor to loose the ball on a pass but the Queens team on heading for the red and white goal ran up against a five man defence that kept well back on the floor so that they were forced to resort to long shots at which they did not live up to their reputation. The game was plentiful in fouls but neither team was intention in causing these. The majority resulted from the [illegible] for the ball, while bodily contact was the cause of the personal fouls. Hazim of Queens was almost a sure scorer on foul shots giving Queens nineteen points in this manner while Manson of McGill scored fifteen points in the same manner.

Queens was unable to set the pace as she had at Toronto in as much as the home team started off at top form and did not let up for an instant until the conclusion of the game.

Crain and Livshin played at defence in a fast manner and it was next to impossible for the Queens team to get a close shot. In the first period they were unable to score but six points all on fouls. In the same period Manson dropped 9 free trys through the nets and scored one goal in action. He was without doubt the best man on the floor a sure shot and played a passing game for the entire minute. Crain in defence played a fast game covering the floor, which was far too slippery for fast basketball, in a remarkable manner. Twice he scored, after the team had worked the ball through the tri-coloured defence, but was always back in position before Queens was down the floor again. Livshin as the other defence man played well back and time after time turned the ball up the field. In the first period he came up the floor and scored on a long shot that brought down the house. Just before the close of the game he was forced to leave because of too many personal fouls. Hay going in as centre, Manson as forward.

The forwards were at top form throughout the game. They played a pretty passing game that was the principal cause of the victory. Laishley scored two points and starred in the five man defence. Mendelsohn put two baskets into the score and was well mixed in the play.

For the tri-colour Hasim was the star of the delegation. He put in a remarkable number of shots and broke up the McGill combination many times. The game was well sprinkled with fouls but no personal animosity appeared. Mr. McCutcheon of Central Y handled the game in a competent manner.

The line-up was as follows:

McGill, 31.	Queens 24.
Forwards
Mendelsohn	Thomas
Laishley	Hasim
Centre
Manson	Jones
Defense
Livshin	Ellis
Crain	Lewis
Subs
Hay	Moore
Little	Gibson

Goals from free trys Hasim 20, Manson 15, field goals: Mendelsohn, Crain, Manson 2; Thomas, Hasim, Livshin, Laishley. Scorer, Bourke; Timer, Mr. Seaman.

HARVARD HAS MEN FROM EVERY STATE

Every state in the Union, Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippine Islands and 42 foreign countries are represented this year among Harvard's 6,073 students, according to figures made public by the university.

Massachusetts leads the States in the number of its representatives at Harvard. There are in the university 2,344 students from Massachusetts homes, or a little less than 39 per cent of the entire enrollment. Eight per cent of the student body come from the other New England states, making the total percentage of New Englanders slightly under 47. Forty-eight per cent come from other parts of the United States, one-half of 1 per cent from the outlying territories of the United States, and about 4 1-2 per cent from foreign countries. The States most heavily represented after Massachusetts, are New York, with 719 students, or nearly 12 per cent of the total; Pennsylvania, with 251; Ohio, with 259; Illinois, with 189; New Jersey, with 179, and California, with 167. Maine follows with 154 and Connecticut with 136. The smallest state representation is that of Nevada, which has only two Harvard students.

Among the foreign countries represented, China leads, with 74 students; China is second, with 54; Japan is third, with 20; South Africa, fourth, with 16; and France and India tied for fifth, with 12. The Canadians are scattered through the various Harvard departments, with the largest groups in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, the Law School and the college. Of the Chinese, nine are in the college, 16 in the Graduate School and 12 in the Business School, with the rest scattering. Eight of the 20 Japanese are in the Graduate School. The South Africans, on the other hand, concentrate upon dentistry, 13 of their group of 16 are in the Dental School.

Thirty-six other foreign countries in every part of the world contribute students to the Harvard of today.

R.V.C. VICTORS IN BASKETBALL

First and Second Teams Defeat Y. W. C. A.

On Saturday afternoon at three o'clock in the Y. M. C. A., gymnasium, the first and second R. V. C. Basketball teams met those of the Y.W.C.A. and won both games. The score for the first team was 45-26, while that for the second team was 29-5. Both games were interesting to watch but at no time was the play particularly fast, except during the first half of the senior game, when R. V. C. made some specially brilliant passes.

Every member of the Senior team played well and the combination on the whole was splendid. Dorothy Russell at centre and Morjorie Leggatt at shot played outstanding games.

The second team played a promising game and showed good form. Phyllis Murray and Eileen Russel played a very good game at the basket, the former making an outstanding field shot. Elise Dunton played a good game as guard.

The Y. W. teams proved worthy opponents and the spurt made by their senior team in the second half made a tie seem possible. J. McCaw showed a good sense of direction in her shooting and G. Donelly at centre displayed good form. In the Junior team the best play was shown by the defence.

The teams were as follows:

First Team.
R. V. C.	Y. W. C. A.
Shots
J. Spier	J. McCaw
M. Leggatt	B. Field
Centres
C. Fraser (J. C.)	G. Donelly
D. Russel	D. Booth
Defence
Z. Slack	N. Rourke
E. Shalkman	C. Rourke
Second Team
R. V. C.	Y. M. C. A.
Shots
E. Russel	M. Cooney
P. Murray	I. Abraham
Centres
M. Pick	G. Barnes
M. Pennington	J. Flemming
Defence
E. Dunton	E. Thomson
M. McWatters	R. O'Brien

The return match is to be played next Saturday at 3 p.m., in the High School gymnasium.

GRADUATE OF MEDICINE '99 CHOSEN FOR B.C. PORTFOLIO

Dr. William H. Sutherland to be Minister of Public Works in Oliver Cabinet — Dr. H. B. Osborne, Med. '86, Dies in London — Fraser S. Keith, Sci. '03, Re-appointed Secretary of the Engineering Institute of Canada — Many Engagements Between Former McGill Men and Women.

Hon. Dr. William H. Sutherland, a member of class of Medicine '99, has just been sworn in as Minister of Public Works in the Oliver administration in British Columbia, to replace Hon. Dr. J. H. King, Med. '95, who has become Minister of Public Works in the King Federal administration.

Hon. Dr. Sutherland was born at Sea View, P.E.I., in 1876 and is of Scottish parentage. He was educated at Prince of Wales College, Charlottetown, and at McGill. From 1899 to 1900 Dr. Sutherland was house surgeon at the Royal Victoria hospital and later, removing to British Columbia, became divisional surgeon at Revelstoke for the Canadian Pacific railway and superintendent of the Queen Victoria hospital in that city. In 1909 he was elected president of the British Columbia Medical Council. In 1916 he was returned to the Legislature and re-elected in 1920, ultimately being chosen as chief whip of the Liberal party in the Legislature.

Hon. Dr. James H. King, who has assumed the important portfolio of Public Works in the Federal cabinet, is a native of Chipman, N. B., where he was born in the same year as Dr. Sutherland. From 1895 to 1898 he was in practice at Andover and St. John,, N. B., and then moved to British Columbia. From 1903 to 1907 he represented Cranbrook in the Legislature and in 1911 was the unsuccessful Liberal candidate for Kootena at the Federal general election. The year 1916 saw him once more a member of the Legislature and in 1920 he was re-elected. CLOSE GAME ON SATURDAY ENDS IN TIE

Intermediates Failed to Defeat Westmount.

SCORE, 3—3.

Davis Played Consistent and Energetic Game for McGill.

The Intermediates and the Westmount A. A. met last Saturday afternoon at the Victoria Rink in a hockey struggle which resulted in a tie. The final score was 3-3. The game was not a particularly fast or interesting one, though in the first period there were several bursts of fast play, mostly on the part of the Red and White supporters. The second period was a scoreless one, and the play was sloppy and lackadaisical. A player would skate down the ice with the puck, and when near the goal would lose it, through sheer laziness, to the opposite side's defence. The latter would then repeat the above performance, with variations and thrills. Westmount displayed some very good individual rushes, but failed to score through bad combination work.

In the final stanza both teams bucked up a little, and a better brand of hockey was the result. Westmount improved in co-operative work and three-men rushes were the order of the day. McGills' combination was also good.

Regarding the play of the teams in general, McGill was superior in respect to the combination play, and there was very little "hogging the puck." Two out of her three goals were scored by concerted rushes, and the passing, except in the second period was satisfactory.

The Westmount, on the other hand depended more on lone individual plays. Not only this but the support given to the puck-carrier was faulty, and when a pass was made there was geenrally none there to take it, or else it was muffed. This was of the third period when Harding scored the second goal of the stanza as a result of a brilliant rush of the whole forward line.

As to individual play, "Sid" Davis was perhaps the most outstanding and consistent player for the Intermediates. While McNaughton and Ross scored the goals, and were quite satisfactory. Davis displayed the most untiring energy and was always on the alert for a chance to jump into the game. For Westmount. Fournier gave the best performance, and played hard throughout the game.

There were only two penalties handed out during the game, both of which were, regrettably, McGill players.

The following is a short summary of the play.

First Period: The game started with a rush and the puck went up and down the ice for about ten minutes without any score. Fredericks (McGill) made a pretty rush down the boards and passed to McNaughton. The latter got into a mix-up in front of Westmount's goal but managed to tally on a rebound. Kent (McGill) was penalized for hitting an opponent with his stick. Ibbetson (Westmount) shortly after made the score equal by a nice shot from the side.

Score 1st Per:—1-1.

Second Period:—Play was slow and sloppy in this period and no score was made by either side.

Third Period: Kelly, a McGill sub. opened proceedings by being sent to the bench for two minutes. Ross scored for the Intermediates, on a pass from "Sid" Davis. Westmount made a beautiful three-man rush, and Harding brought the score even. Fournier scored again for Westmount. McNaughton tied the game with a beautifully executed shot just before the final gong.

Final Score: McGill—3; Westmount—3.

SWIMMING TEAM IS PRACTISING

Possibly Four Contests With Toronto in Two Days.

The Swimming Club have been trying for the last few days to arrange dates for the swimming meet and water polo games with Toronto which take place in Montreal this year.

U. of T. want the dates to be March 4th and 11th. However, it is more likely that the swimming meet will be on Friday afternoon, Feb. 17, and the polo match on the next Saturday night. As the hockey and basketball fixtures with Toronto are on Friday night and Saturday afternoon, this arrangement will provide an exciting week-end of sport, besides giving the blue and white swimmers a a chance to support their hockey team in Montreal.

hard for the meet. About twenty men were out to a practice on Saturday. Ross, Vickerson and Kyle are

The McGill swimmers are training working on speed events; Winslow on the back stroke: Parsons on the 220, while Fisk is going in for both of these events. Laidley and Binns are making good time for the breast stroke, and Forsythe is working on the long plunge. Laidley is also practising his fancy diving. After the practice there was a snappy water polo work-out. In short, all the men are showing good form, and may be expected to give a fine account of themselves against Toronto.

As the meet is so near all the men are requested to turn up at practices. The next work-out is on Tuesday at 5.15.

ONTARIO MEN WILL SKATE, EAT, DANCE

Party on Wednesday Evening at 8.00 O'Clock.

Skating!
Refreshments!
Dancing!

This is what the Ontario Club intends doing on Wednesday evening. The skating will start at eight o'clock on the campus rink, followed by refreshments and dancing in the Hall. The charge for skating will be the ordinary amount of 25c. for those who do not possess season tickets, and 50c. a couple for refreshments and dancing.

If there are any Ontario men who have not already joined the club they are invited to come out and see the kind of party that their sectional club are capable of arranging. The membership has been rising steadily owing to the splendid entertainments that are in store for the coming term.

Arrangements for a club dance are almost completed, and it is probable that definite information will be given out on Wednesday evening. This will be a good chance for the man from Ontario to arrange another evening with her.

ing down McTavish. Realizing his mistake when it was too late, he doubled back up the hill and came down McTavish some minutes later in fourth place, on the Dartmouth Team, as his was without a doubt the second best performance of the afternoon.

The lack of snow and the imperative necessity of having the entries wired to Hanover by the night of Feb. 4th have forced the executive to forego the Jumping and Proficiency items. The team will leave about the middle of the week for the "Wah-woo-wah" Carnival to compete there with Dartmouth, Middlebury, and Williams. The McGill Entries as wired down are as follows:—Foss, Lane, Elliot, Desbarats, Sherrard, Gravel, Glen O. Laslie, with Ralph Whitall as manager.

GRADUATE OF MEDICINE '99 CHOSEN FOR B.C. PORTFOLIO

Dr. William H. Sutherland to be Minister of Public Works in Oliver Cabinet — Dr. H. B. Osborne, Med. '86, Dies in London — Fraser S. Keith, Sci. '03, Re-appointed Secretary of the Engineering Institute of Canada — Many Engagements Between Former McGill Men and Women.

Hon. Dr. William H. Sutherland, a member of class of Medicine '99, has just been sworn in as Minister of Public Works in the Oliver administration in British Columbia, to replace Hon. Dr. J. H. King, Med. '95, who has become Minister of Public Works in the King Federal administration.

Hon. Dr. Sutherland was born at Sea View, P.E.I., in 1876 and is of Scottish parentage. He was educated at Prince of Wales College, Charlottetown, and at McGill. From 1899 to 1900 Dr. Sutherland was house surgeon at the Royal Victoria hospital and later, removing to British Columbia, became divisional surgeon at Revelstoke for the Canadian Pacific railway and superintendent of the Queen Victoria hospital in that city. In 1909 he was elected president of the British Columbia Medical Council. In 1916 he was returned to the Legislature and re-elected in 1920, ultimately being chosen as chief whip of the Liberal party in the Legislature.

Hon. Dr. James H. King, who has assumed the important portfolio of Public Works in the Federal cabinet, is a native of Chipman, N. B., where he was born in the same year as Dr. Sutherland. From 1895 to 1898 he was in practice at Andover and St. John,, N. B., and then moved to British Columbia. From 1903 to 1907 he represented Cranbrook in the Legislature and in 1911 was the unsuccessful Liberal candidate for Kootena at the Federal general election. The year 1916 saw him once more a member of the Legislature and in 1920 he was re-elected. Mr. Clarke has spent some time in research along these lines so that his paper promised to be of exceptional interest. Refreshments will be served.

CLOSE GAME ON SATURDAY ENDS IN TIE

Intermediates Failed to Defeat Westmount.

SCORE, 3—3.

Davis Played Consistent and Energetic Game for McGill.

The Intermediates and the Westmount A. A. met last Saturday afternoon at the Victoria Rink in a hockey struggle which resulted in a tie. The final score was 3-3. The game was not a particularly fast or interesting one, though in the first period there were several bursts of fast play, mostly on the part of the Red and White supporters. The second period was a scoreless one, and the play was sloppy and lackadaisical. A player would skate down the ice with the puck, and when near the goal would lose it, through sheer laziness, to the opposite side's defence. The latter would then repeat the above performance, with variations and thrills. Westmount displayed some very good individual rushes, but failed to score through bad combination work.

In the final stanza both teams bucked up a little, and a better brand of hockey was the result. Westmount improved in co-operative work and three-men rushes were the order of the day. McGills' combination was also good.

Regarding the play of the teams in general, McGill was superior in respect to the combination play, and there was very little "hogging the puck." Two out of her three goals were scored by concerted rushes, and the passing, except in the second period was satisfactory.

The Westmount, on the other hand depended more on lone individual plays. Not only this but the support given to the puck-carrier was faulty, and when a pass was made there was geenrally none there to take it, or else it was muffed. This was of the third period when Harding scored the second goal of the stanza as a result of a brilliant rush of the whole forward line.

As to individual play, "Sid" Davis was perhaps the most outstanding and consistent player for the Intermediates. While McNaughton and Ross scored the goals, and were quite satisfactory. Davis displayed the most untiring energy and was always on the alert for a chance to jump into the game. For Westmount, Fournier gave the best performance, and played hard throughout the game.

There were only two penalties handed out during the game, both of which were, regrettably, McGill players.

The following is a short summary of the play.

First Period: The game started with a rush and the puck went up and down the ice for about ten minutes without any score. Fredericks (McGill) made a pretty rush down the boards and passed to McNaughton. The latter got into a mix-up in front of Westmount's goal but managed to tally on a rebound. Kent (McGill) was penalized for hitting an opponent with his stick. Ibbetson (Westmount) shortly after made the score equal by a nice shot from the side.

Score 1st Per:—1-1.

Second Period:—Play was slow and sloppy in this period and no score was made by either side.

Third Period: Kelly, a McGill sub. opened proceedings by being sent to the bench for two minutes. Ross scored for the Intermediates, on a pass from "Sid" Davis. Westmount made a beautiful three-man rush, and Harding brought the score even. Fournier scored again for Westmount. McNaughton tied the game with a beautifully executed shot just before the final gong.

Final Score: McGill—3; Westmount —3.

SWIMMING TEAM IS PRACTISING

Possibly Four Contests With Toronto in Two Days.

The Swimming Club have been trying for the last few days to arrange dates for the swimming meet and water polo games with Toronto which take place in Montreal this year.

U. of T. want the dates to be March 4th and 11th. However, it is more likely that the swimming meet will be on Friday afternoon, Feb. 17, and the polo match on the next Saturday night. As the hockey and basketball fixtures with Toronto are on Friday night and Saturday afternoon, this arrangement will provide an exciting week-end of sport, besides giving the blue and white swimmers a a chance to support their hockey team in Montreal.

Hard for the meet. About twenty men were out to a practice on Saturday. Ross, Vickerson and Kyle are

The McGill swimmers are training working on speed events; Winslow on the back stroke; Parsons on the 220, while Fisk is going in for both of these events. Laidley and Binns are making good time for the breast stroke, and Forsythe is working on the long plunge. Laidley is also practising his fancy diving. After the practice there was a snappy water polo work-out. In short, all the men are showing good form, and may be expected to give a fine account of themselves against Toronto.

As the meet is so near all the men are requested to turn up at practices. The next work-out is on Tuesday at 5.15.
